DUE PROCESS - RESOLUTION SESSIONS INFORMATION

What is a resolution session? A resolution session is a dispute resolution process that occurs after a parent has filed a due process hearing request and before the due process hearing timelines begin. It provides parents and local education agencies an opportunity to meet to resolve the problems identified in the parent's due process hearing request. Resolution sessions are explained in greater detail in the federal regulations that implement Individuals with Disability Education Act (IDEA) at 34 C.F.R. § 300.510.

What are the resolution session timelines? Within 15 day of receiving notice of a parent's due process complaint, and prior to the initiation of a due process hearing the local Birth to three program and/or the LEA must convene a meeting - the resolution session - with the parents that filed the complaint, and relevant member of the individualized family service plan (IFSP) team. At this meeting, the parents are given the opportunity to discuss their complaint and the facts that form the basis for the complaint, and the local Birth to three program and/or the LEA is provided the opportunity to resolve the complaint. The resolution session must be convened unless: (1) the parent and the local Birth to Three program and/or the LEA jointly agree in writing to waive the meeting; or (2) the parent and the local birth to three program and/ or the LEA agree to participate in mediation in lieu of the resolution session.

What are the resolution timelines for due process hearing requests? When a parent files a request for a due process hearing, the local birth to three program and/or the LEA must hold a resolution session within 15 days of receiving notice of the due process complaint, and attempt to reach resolution within 30 days of the receipt of the hearing request.

Who are the required participants? Resolution session participants include the parents and relevant member or members of the IFSP team who have knowledge of the facts identified in the due process complaint, including the local Birth to Three program representative and/or an LEA representative who has decision-making authority.

*The resolution session may not include the local Birth to Three program attorney and/or the LEA attorney unless the parent is accompanied by an attorney.

What if the parent does not want to participate in a resolution session or the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA does not convene the resolution session? If a parent files the due process complaint and the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA does not convene a resolution session within the timelines, the parent may ask the hearing officer to begin the due process hearing timeline. If the parent files the due process complaint and does not come to the meeting as scheduled, and the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA documents that it is unable to obtain the participation of the parent, the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA may, at the conclusion of the 30-day resolution period, request the hearing officer to dismiss the parent's due process complaint.

What happens if we reach agreement? If the issues in the due process complaint are resolved at the resolution session, then the parties shall develop a legally binding written agreement that is signed by both the parent and a representative from the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA with authority to bind the agency. The agreement is enforceable in a state court of competent jurisdiction or in a district court of the United States. Either party may void the resolution agreement within three business days of the agreement's execution.

What happens if we do not reach agreement? If, after a resolution session or mediation, the local Birth to 3 program and/or the LEA has not resolved the parent's due process complaint within 30 days of receipt of the complaint, the due process hearing may occur. The 45-day due process hearing timeline begins at the end of the 30-day resolution period, or the day after one of the following events:

1. Both parties agree jointly in writing to waive the resolution session; or
2. After either the mediation or the resolution session starts, but before the end of the 30-day resolution period, the parties agree jointly in writing that no agreement is possible.

 If one of the above occurs, the parties must immediately notify the DOE/Birth to Three Connections and the Hearing Officer.

If you have questions about resolution sessions, please contact the SD Department of Education, Birth to Program Three Connections at 605-773-3678.
