As an AFJROTC instructor, I feel that any of the standards that are proposed lead to the completion of the mission statement for AFJROTC which is to build better citizens for America.

Having spent 21 years on active duty in the United States Air Force, I feel that it is important to have AFJROTC included in the CTE cluster. Many students feel that they are not ready for college when they graduate, and having spent three or more years in this program will allow them to prepare for a future career in the military.

JROTC I - IV will greatly benefit JROTC cadets by providing CTE credit for their four years of study. It also makes JROTC a more attractive option to completing graduation CTE credits.

AFJROTC has been at Douglas High School since 1971. It's always been a struggle finding a way to reward JROTC cadets for what they accomplish in school and in the community. CTE credit will greatly help in showing the worth of this course of study.
