- (1) Federal lists or registries of evidence-based interventions;
- (2) Reported positively in peer reviewed journals; or
- (3) Documented effectiveness based on four guidelines for evidence which are:
  - a) The intervention is based on a theory of change that is documented in a clear logic or conceptual model;
  - b) The intervention is similar in content and structure to interventions that appear in registries or the peer reviewed literature or both;
  - c) The intervention is supported by documentation that it has been effectively implemented in the past, and multiple times, in a manner attentive to scientific standards of evidence and with results that show a consistent pattern of credible and positive effects; and
  - d) The intervention is reviewed and deemed appropriate by a panel of informed prevention experts that includes well-qualified prevention researchers who are experienced in evaluating prevention interventions similar to those under review.

If needed, the evaluator may consult with the SD Department of Social Services – Division of Behavioral Health for interventions that do not show letter D, but meet A-C.
